Ed Dowd Makes Chilling Prediction on How the COVID Conspirators Will Cover Up Their Crimes

"And when we get to a critical amount of people, the anger will be such that the politicians will understand that something's changed, the regulators will start to worry, and we'll start to see something — or an event that will cover it all up."

Dowd cited why he thinks "we're getting close" to the tipping point.

A new COVID vaccine is here, but those at greatest risk may not get it as outreach drops off

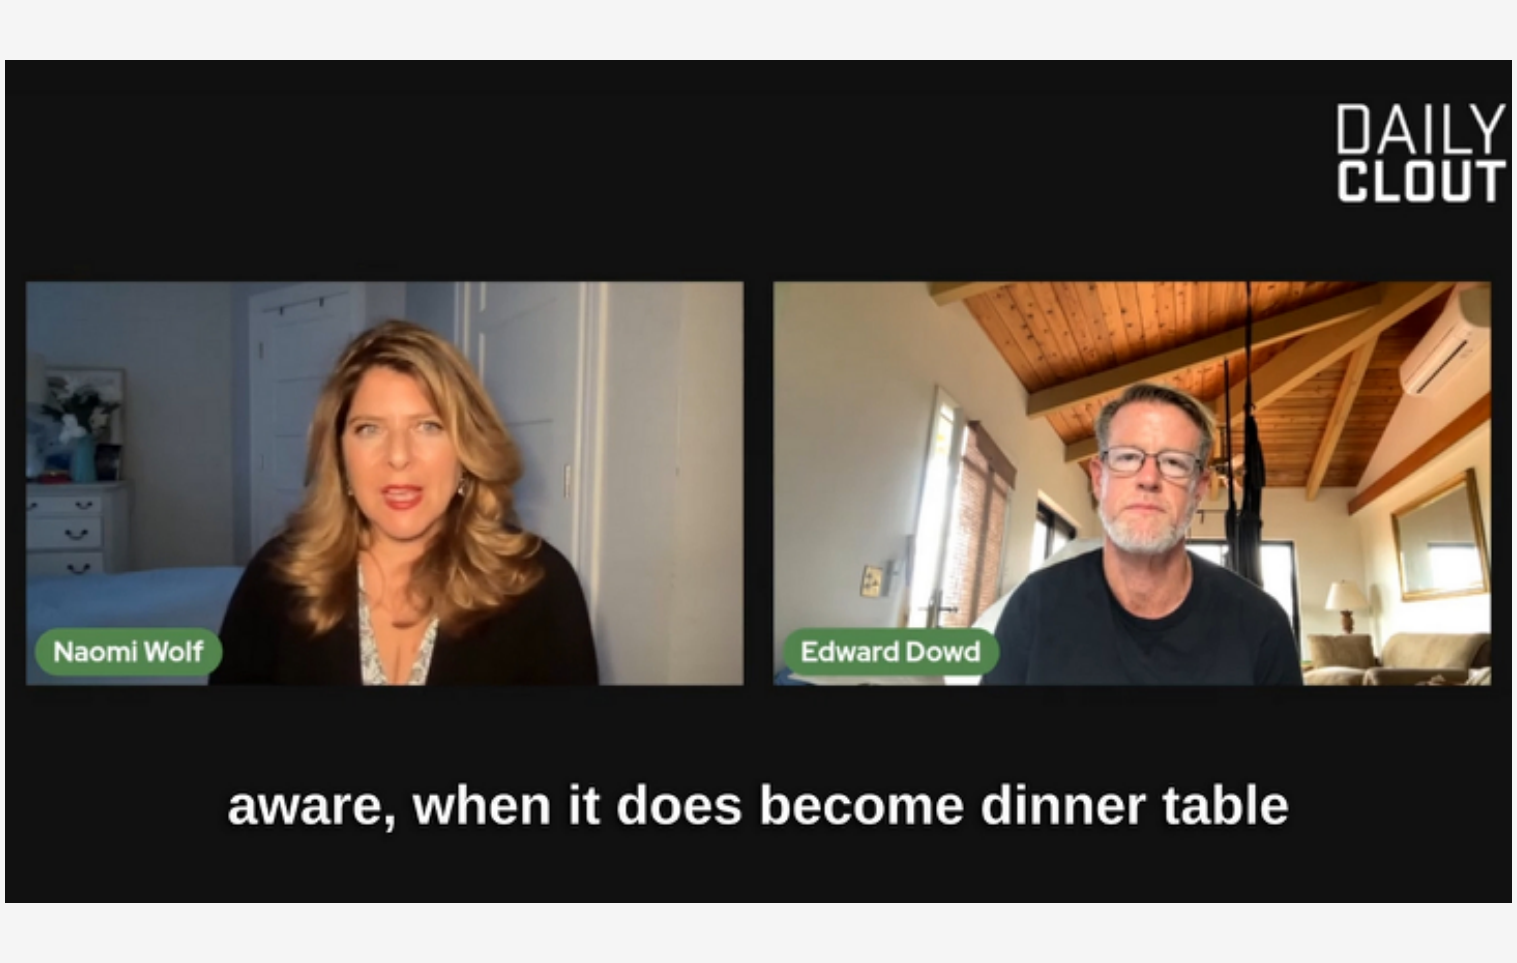
Health Sep 17, 2023 2:38 PM EDT

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends new COVID-19 booster vaccines for all — but many who need them most won't get them. About 75 percent of people in the United States appear to have skipped last year's bivalent booster, and nothing suggests uptake will be better this time around.

According to PBS, 75% of Americans skipped last year's COVID-19 booster shot. Chances are the booster uptake will be even less this year.

"Well, what's going to happen politically?" asked Dr. Wolf.

"What do people at the highest levels behind the scenes start to do when the rank and file start to realize they [and their loved ones] have been murdered?"



"Well, so this is the problem," answered Dowd. "In more normal times, we'd peacefully vote all these people out, then investigate them and prosecute them. But these crimes are so horrific [that] I think the establishment is going to try to create a diversion or steal the election to prevent themselves from ever being prosecuted. Because once this comes to light, there'll be no place to hide on the planet, in my humble opinion."

Tucker Carlson echoed a similar sentiment on August 30.

Carlson warned about the slippery slope of criminalizing political activity. He suggested that once politicians begin indicting their opponents (Trump), they set a precedent to which they themselves could be subjected. As a result, Carlson claimed that Democrats "can't lose" or that they will get indicted themselves. Therefore, "they will do anything to win." The likely distraction — a hot war with Russia.

"There will be a hot war between the United States and Russia in the next year. They want it anyway. I don't think we'll win it, but that's a separate analysis. But I think, as a political matter, they need to declare war footing in order to assume war powers in order to win [the election]. I believe that, and I think all the evidence suggests that's true. So, if you're worried about our politics getting even more vicious than it already is and people being hurt in our politics, which is entirely possible, you should be worried about the prospect of an open war."

So, it seems Ed Dowd and Tucker Carlson agree.

To avoid accountability at all costs, the people in power need to retain power. And this desperate grip on power, according to both analysts, will likely push them to take drastic measures.

Ahh the old NAZI doctors. Did you know Auschwitz had swimming pools, a theater and brothels? It had maternity wards, family housing units and football (soccer teams). Imagine that, inmates being worked so hard they had energy left at the end of the day to play soccer.

Next to the math on how 4,000,000 Jews could have been gassed and cremated given the logistics of Auschwitz. Maybe then you'll realize you've been lied to. Again. And again.

No one questions the camps. It's interesting of course that all of the camps liberated by the allied forces were work camps while all of the camps liberated by the Soviets were death camps. What a coincidence! It's not like the Commies were purveyors of propaganda. Maybe that's why they built a detached chimney at Auschwitz AFTER the camp was liberated.

Did you know the Red Cross were stationed at the camps and never reported any issues. Did you know the NAZIs documented every detail of the war yet there is no written documentation found for the extermination of Jews. Did you know that the British cracked the secret NAZI code yet they intercepted exactly zero NAZI communications discussing the mass extermination of Jews. I could do this all night. The holohoax argument holds about as much water as a fishing net.

Work camps. They needed the manpower to produce resources for war. You don't put tattoos on people you're sentencing to death. You tag assets, inventory or laborers to track over a period of time when you plan to use them (versus destroy or discard them).

It does matter. The holocaust has been weaponized against Western society. Holocaust denial is illegal in many European countries. There is no logical reason for this, where debate is crushed and dissent is met with the removal from civilized society. Just look at what David Irving went through. He was not a proponent of murdering all Jews, he only look at the historical facts and arrived at a non mainstream conclusion. This isn't right, it's not okay.

I don't think that most holocaust revisionists (I've never met an actual denier) claim that the camps were a resort vacation. But reasonable people should be able to sort through the evidence and debate. This is impossible in most places with the holocaust. And you still have organizations like ADL, SPLC using the holocaust as a way to control society. Just look at the chaos on Twitter now. People are noticing. The same people who will not let you ask questions about the holocaust are the same people not letting you ask questions about COVID, lockdowns, the jabs, etc.

The situation is not dissimilar than with the jabs. Does it matter if the jabs harm 10,000 worldwide rather than 6,000,000? I think it does.

Somewhere in the thread you stated that the camps that were liberated by American troops were deemed to be 'work camps' and that the Soviets were the only ones who liberated supposed "death camps".

Below are some excerpts from an article recounting the AMERICAN liberation of Dachau:

From https://americanmilitarynews

"What the Soldiers discovered next at Dachau left an impression of a lifetime," the division assistant chaplain (Maj.) Eli Bohnen wrote at the time, according to the release. ""Nothing you can put in words would adequately describe what I saw there. The human mind refuses to believe what the eyes see. All the stories of Nazi horrors are underestimated rather than exaggerated."

"The U.S. Army unit uncovered thousands of bodies of men, women and children held in the concentration camp."

"There were over 4,000 bodies, men, women and children in a warehouse in the crematorium," Lt. Col. Walter Fellenz, commander of the 1st Battalion, 222nd Infantry, said in his report. "There were over 1,000 dead bodies in the barracks within the enclosure."

"Riflemen, accustomed to witnessing death, had no stomach for rooms stacked almost ceiling high with tangled human bodies adjoining the cremation furnaces, looking like some maniac's woodpile," wrote Tech. Sgt. James Creasman, a division public affairs NCO in the 42nd Division World News, May 1, 1945.

"Over 205,000 people were imprisoned there between 1933-1945. Some 41,500 were murdered there. #history."

And you consider Dachau to be a "work camp"???

I want to emphasize part of what the American chaplain wrote when the camp complex was liberated:

"The human mind refuses to believe what the eyes see. All the stories of Nazi horrors are underestimated rather than exaggerated."

"The human mind refuses to believe what the eyes see",

Maybe that's the reason why it's so hard for some people to believe that it ever happened......

Sucks when the allies bomb your supply lines and everyone starved to death. There were no homicidal gas chambers, there's no evidence of these. The pile of bodies included Jews but were not exclusively Jews.

The camps were work camps, labor camps, not Club Med. Typhus was a huge problem, hence the Zyklon B. The US did the same thing with DDT.

No one disputes that people died in the camps. The dispute is to the claim that there was a systematic plan to exterminate all Jews, and that 6,000,000 were gassed in homicidal gas chambers, including 4,000,000 in Auschwitz alone. That is the claim.

You referred to some first hand accounts of a work camp. You're probably aware of the books written by Eisenhower, Churchill and de Gaulle after the war. Over 7,000 pages in total. Not one sentence or mention of anything related to the Jews holocaust story.

Wasn't the bombings of all infastructure, railways, responsible for no foods and medicines getting through and mass outbreaks of typhoid the prime cause of deaths and suffering? Ann Frank was not gassed but died of typhoid in an actual hospital in Belsen.

LIKE (2) REPLY (1) SHARE

CKWrites God of NQSep 22

Ann was actually moved when she became ill. They tried to cure her. Seems like it would have been a lot easier to just put a bullet in her head. She was a weak and frail little girl who could not really contribute to the war effort. Why did the NAZI's try to keep her alive? Why not just throw her into a gas chamber, shoot her or just beat her to death and burn her body? Ann's story doesn't fit well with the mass extermination story.

I'm the daughter of German parents, father called up to serve in 1943, aged 17. He was captured in Normandy and shipped to USA as POW and he was lucky as over 1m POWS under Eisenhower and French suffered and died from malnutrition and neglect. US and Brits have no idea that millions of civilian Germans, women, children, old folk, more died after the war ended. The "wolf kinder" orphans living on their wits to survive. Most of my youth was total embarrassment to be German as I believed the rhetoric but my parents, although very young at the time, knew nothing of the horrors which only surfaced long after. Only since this plandemic have I read so much and learned about banksters, geopolitics and pharma, oh and weather manipulation. Once people realise that every event that happens is orchestrated deliberately by a select few and without them the world would be a much better place. What's happening now is another phase towards one global utopia for them but now under health and free speech policy which younger ones in particular, don't understand.

We have to discern and decipher propaganda. Anyone can describe the aftermath of anything with their own bias. A corrupt cop can plant a gun by a dead body and say a murder was self-defense. Oswald can be blamed for JFK's murder. 9/11 can be interpreted as the official conspiracy theory claimed, even though a number of the alleged 'kamikaze' terrorists were discovered alive after the event and Building 7 collapsed into its footprint at freefall speed like the twin towers did WITHOUT a plane striking it.

More people should be wide awake now after the Scamdemic, the money laundering via Ukraine, decades of UFO and advanced technology coverups, false flags & needless wars, etc. Even Congress concedes there are secret access programs, black budgets and covert ops that they know nothing about—all done in the name of national security & national defense.

This is status quo for our so-called Democratic Republic. Has been this way for generations.

Our founding fathers debated how much or how little federal government there should be, and were challenged by enemies both without & within throughout the American Revolution and in every generation that followed.

LIKE REPLY (1) SHARE

MarkSep 22

One also needs to learn to discern which conspiracy theories are plausible or even possible and which ones are quite unlikely to be true.

Any reasonably intelligent person who is so inclined can take the mounds of information available on the internet (whether true or not) and weave a plausible scenario to "prove " that just about anything.

I don't have the time or inclination to debate each of the myriad theories, and I'm sure that some of them have merit.

But the fact is, that until we have indisputable evidence (like we do with Covid...both its origins and the vaxx) that the official narrative is true, all that we can do is sit around and argue or agree with each other about the merits of each theory.

Many people seem to have made the assumption that, because "they" are lying to us about Covid, that "they" have lied to us about everything remotely questionable that has ever happened.....

LIKE REPLY (2) SHARE

CKWrites God of NQSep 22

The burden of proof lies upon the creator of the theory, story or narrative. It is up to those who claim that 6,000,000 died to provide evidence or proof to support this claim. A story here and there does not amount to proof of 6,000,000.

The same can be said for anthropogenic global warming, now rebranded as climate change. The assertion is that human activity is increasing CO2 levels which is increasing global temperatures which is a danger to humanity. This is true until proven false. This is a logical fallacy.

Poking holes in the 6,000,000 gassed and cremated Jews is just too easy. The 6,000,000 number was pushed by a Jewish newspaper hundreds of times before the end of WWII. Here is a collection.

https://www.minds.com/ZUGZWANG1939/blog/246-newspaper-articles-about-6-000-000-jews-from-1900-1945-1037772629545177088

Discernment takes time, energy, interest, effort and critical thinking skills. Not everyone is up to the task. Some people are expert researchers, others are good observers, listeners & thinkers (or examiners) of others' research, others might be mildly curious, and others apathetic or too busy with daily life to get involved.

LIKE (1) REPLY (1) SHARE

True, but many "researchers" of these various theories already have a pre-conceived idea of what they think happened (or ideas that they wish to convey) and cherry pick facts to validate their claims. In some cases they simply lie and hope that no one checks their sources.

A popular and blatant example of this is "Ancient Aliens" on the History Channel. If you bother to look into the claims made on that program, you'll find that almost all of it is BS. The "researchers" do exactly what I'm complaining about. They cherry pick facts to fit their narrative, and leave out rational explanations by credible experts (with accompanying evidence that is ignored). They are essentially lying to the public and I personally believe that there is a fair amount of this in the realm of conspiracy theorists.

I am not saying that there is no validity to any of these theories, just that one needs to be very careful about which sources to believe.

There also is a tendency for some people to string these theories together into what really becomes an alternate history, where absolutely nothing is as it seems and everything that we were taught is a lie.

I also wonder how much these theories are being pushed by our adversaries in order to undermine our allegiance to our own country.

There were multiple camps on all sides, including Japanese internment camps throughout the US, prisoner of war & slave labor camps throughout Europe that the allies used, to say nothing of the gulags in the Soviet Union where 20,000,000 people, including Jews, had died prior to World War II and tens of millions continued to suffer and die after World War II.

Almost 2,000,000 German prisoners of war died in the allied prison camps from starvation without any food, clothing, shelter, medical aid… anything humanitarian…. like Andersonville where thousands of Union soldiers died the same way.

The Soviet union would've been defeated by Germany had not the US supplied them with weapons, money, intelligence & manpower. Hitler was trying to save Germany & Europe from Communism. The US and Great Britain helped it spread.

The claim, Kathie, as I'm sure you're quite aware, is that 4 gorillian Jews died at Auschwitz. That number used to be on the plaque there. The plaque was quietly changed because of noticers.

I'm sure you're also well studied on the liberation of the camps themselves. I have no doubt that you find it both interesting and highly coincidental (perhaps TOO coincidental) that 100% of the camps liberated by the allies were deemed work camps while 100% of the camps liberated by our communist friends (and mortal enemies of the fascists) were death camps. Isn't that something? I mean, what are the odds?!?

I'm also sure you know the history of the detached chimney at Auschwitz, which was build by the USSR after the end of the war. The chimney to nowhere, connected to nothing. It looks great in the photos of course.

So yes Kat, this dude is quite well aware that there were multiple camps. I've probably read more books on the holohoax than you've read books - in total.

Anything that disagrees with official narratives promoted by people in power, including our current administration, big tech, big Pharma, NGOs, Zionist elites, etc. is called hate speech, or 'incitement to hatred,' or a conspiracy theory, or historical revisionism. I recommend people read, think, listen, and reflect as free-thinking people with free will entitled to free speech. 😉

And yet people like Dario Gabbai have been caught telling ridiculous lies. The survivor stories are full of wild lies and exaggeration.

Holocaust denial: the radical notion that the same people who lied about human soap, human-skin lampshades, shrunken heads, steam chambers, electric floors, rollercoasters of death, anus gas pumps, masturbation machines of death, switcharoo hands, bendable shotguns and the peddle-driven brain bashing machine aren't telling the truth about gas chambers. Understand that there is no physical evidence of homicidal gas chambers. The logistics of such are impossible.

So go ahead and listen to survivor stories. For every one saying something horrible and unimaginable there are others who say they were work camps. If you examine the facts then you'll see that the gassing of 6,000,000 Jews was an impossible task, and there were no recorded plans, documents or communications about mass extermination. Hitler wanted to either put them elsewhere in Europe or move them to Madagascar.

What I wonder about is that in Germany, right before C19, in late 2019, a law was altered to include state "recommended" vaccines as something where people can get financial support in case of damages, and to pay that if it gets big, people e.g. who own houses can be forced to take a mortgage on their house. ("Lastenausgleich")

This smells like they could use the damage they inflicted and hasten the path to "you'll own nothing" with it, as if they had re-usable bullets.

They are in control. Think Maui. Further since this is global my opinion is Agent Biden has his job of destroying the USA so the North American Union can rise from it's ashes. At this point we're simply in a Moderate Totalitarian order able to go hard at any time with likely little resistance no matter word of mouth. Unless there is a Maquis there is no Resistance possible in Vichy USA.

I find that it is best to take a counter viewpoint most of the time. when you understand what is really going on in Ukraine and other parts of the world, you will understand why there will not be a hot war with Russia next year.

Don't forget, we are in 5GW warfare and there are agents, (Dowd? Carlson?) whose job it is to spread disinformation at times to keep the bad guys off balance.

Sometimes the best course is a "wait and see."

It doesn't need to be covered-up because if you want to live, you need their antidote. People don't seem to understand that once you open Pandora's box, you can't put the lid back on. To accept this concept, that the government is capable of such an evil, is to accept that all other questionable actions, something like 9/11 for example, was an inside job and that for the last 60+ years, the US has clearly been the bad/evil guy in virtually every situation. Murdering millions of innocent civilians at minimum. To accept this truth, is to accept that US patriotism, by it's very nature is selfish and inherently bad, and based on practically every historical precedent, you either double down on the evil as a united front under the guise of religious righteousness, or the entire society collapses into chaos.

I would be more than surprised if anything approximating an antidote existed.

Multiple types of toxicity, several rates of onset & progression, anatomical location playing a sometimes decisive role in outcomes plus now several years since their poisonings, very many will be in a pathological condition from which no recovery is possible.

A formerly well person who, a year after last injection is becoming more and more sick, I am so sorry. I recommend you put your affairs in order, tell those you need to that you love them and turn your mind to the new horizon.

God bless them.

Unfortunately, you don't need a literal antidote, only a treatment that masks the symptoms long enough for you to convince them of another cause. Very easily achieved with mRNA technology as the soon to be prominent mode of IM treatments. People will, in a state of fight or flight, instinctively find comfort in the assurity of authority, even knowing that solution is false. Modern health care treats the symptoms and not the cause and decades of programming have almost guaranteed this as best practice.

Climate change for example will be used to explain the majority of causal effects from the mRNA treatments, of which, when faced with the decision of choosing between a treatment you know won't work, and the idea that your own government has tried to murder you - which do you think most will accept? All they need is one Placebo recovery and people will lap that up like a starving dog.

There was a reason why they enforced the Medical doctors to first take the poison. It all but guarantees their loyalty to push any future product you put forth as a 'cure', as they too are desperately seeking their own solution to the poison in their veins. If they speak out or rebel, they lose their livelihood, which then prohibits them from affording the healthcare required to prolong their life.

Nothing changed after Hiroshima when the US murdered 140,000 innocent Japanese civilians, and nothing will change after it's discovered that a US bioweapon was responsible for the murder of millions/billions. A little propaganda and some reassuring platitudes and people will resume their lives in a prison of their own creation.

The question is to be what proportion!

I agree with most of your assessment of the horrible events like 911 and the policy of endless wars after the end of the Cold War.

I do have a major disagreement with you on your conclusion that the United States is inherently an evil empire. Because the country has been deceived by Globalists, Bush, Clinton, G.W. Bush, Obama and Biden. Of course, they have been served by gangs of criminals. Trump was elected in 2016 because more and more people have sensed that the nation must have a major change. He was re-elected in 2020, but was sacked by the coup.

You listed Presidents from both parties, and stated. the moment you had a president who wasn't a puppet, they over threw him. People are too easily distracted by scapegoats and figure heads as representations of singular evil entities. If what you say is true, it means that the entire governance structure is corrupt and therefore the entire political system is 'inherently an evil empire'. This does not mean that the people themselves are guilty of those sins, however in the context of the argument, once they realise their government was responsible for these horrific historical events, it can only lead to the realisation that their entire democratic process is fraudulent. Since they can only choose between two parties, both of which are essentially serving the same master, they realise they are in a bi-dictatorship, and that their support for said party implicates them in those atrocities.

Therefore, it's easier to be wilfully ignorant to the truth, than accept the reality of the situation. The realisation that this is not the first, nor the last time, the US government has deliberately attacked its own people begins a chain reaction that can only lead to total destruction. This is why so many believed the Jan 6th story, as many subconsciously desire to overthrow said corrupt government. All they need to do is sacrifice a few useless figureheads, like Biden, and they can pacify the population for another decade whilst they enrich themselves even further.

@The Tenth Man Rule I agree with most of your points. But your conclusion is hard to accept.

Because if we follow your argument, then YOU ARE ALSO responsible for aiding and abetting the criminal regimes. So YOU ARE GUILTY TOO. Have you paid your income taxes? Have you voted in the major elections? The US is full of criminal presidents and their coattails, what did you do about them? Because your timid obedience and tax dollars are definitively responsible for their happy lives.... I'll take my words back if your answers are "no" to the above questions.

Yes, I am also responsible to a certain extent for the state of the nation, but it's several orders of magnitude smaller than those who vote for Democrats and RINOs.

This story is a prime example of how a person can be so right on one thing (horrific jab crimes) and so wrong on another (hot war with Russia and who would win). Ed Dowd is certainly a patriot who wants the truth to come out, but he's so woefully ignorant of geopolitics. Similar to Tucker Carlson, who likewise has zero understanding of geopolitics and the balance of military power. Anybody that thinks of a "hot war between the US and Russia" with those the only two players like a chess game has no clue of reality.

First, anybody that thinks the corrupt Russian military stands even a smidgen of a chance against NATO (why Dowd thinks a war will be between the "US and Russia" is baffling) is clearly ignorant of what military aid has been sent to Ukraine and how pitiful it is. Less than 2% of the US arsenal has been sent to Ukraine (yes, other NATO nations have contributed a lot), yet Ukraine has managed to not only stop Russian advances but is slowly and inexorably reclaiming it's occupied territory. For background on Ukraine and the reasons for defending it, look up the Budapest Memorandum, part of the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty and educate yourself. The US and UK are treaty-bound for Ukraine's defense, whether or not people on the right like it.

Instead of listening to Ed Dowd or Tucker Carlson on the Ukraine situation, watch Perun's YT videos which delve into all the relevant aspects of the European situation around the Ukraine invasion. He is an Australian with a deep background in defense economics, logistics, weapons, and pretty much everything else, and he actually knows what he is talking about; his analyses are thorough, not idle speculation.

Ed Dowd should stick to exposing medical crimes against humanity, an area in which he is helping lead the fight for truth.
